To Miss Weston Anne Warren Weston?

No.130

«Unionville, Lake Co., Ohio» The writer expresses sympathy with those who labor in the Abolition cause. Sends five dollars. "Prejudice against Carrisonism and Comeoutism is prevalent here; but truth is spreading ..." Hopes for an Antiallavery lecturer in this vicinity. Refers to the "recent tragical scenes at Christiana and at Syracuse." Extols the courage of the Abolitionists. The writer's gift was delayed by the protracted illness of her husband.

Boston. The writer sends several copies of the Golden Rule and asks the addressee to try to interest the visitors to the annual meeting in it. Says that the Golden Rule must get its support from friends of the Old Organization. Wants the names of the members of the Boston Female Anti-Slavery Society who are in favor of a change of officers. Would like the addressee's advice on holding a meeting of the Golden Rule Association, or, alternatively, a New England Convention, in May.

To Anne Warren Weston

Lynn, Mass.. The writer regrets that "the conversation at our house should have left unlovely impressions" on the addressee's mind. The writer "has ever felt the deepest sympathy for Emerson and Alcott." Basing her own notions on St. John's Gospel, the writer takes a critical attitude toward St. Faul. Exhorting the addressee not to identify "spiritualism" with materialism, the writer sets forth her idea of innocence and divine immanence. Explains also the thesis:
"My Faith is the stronghold of my Abolitionism."

Jamaica Plain, Mass., Referring to a note from the addressee, which she received shortly before going to the "conversation party," the writer states that she did not have time to ascertain the objects of the Fair, and a "conversation on the subject" would have interrupted the course adopted by her class. The writer explains her attitude toward the Anti-Slavery cause, which commands her respect, although her own path "leads a different course and often leaves me quite ignorant of what you are doing." Nevertheless the writer has not been intolerant. "I have wronged none of you by a hasty judgment or careless words ... nev imed in with the popular hue and cry." [Cambridge.] A memorandum of Indian children put forth into service to the English, being of those Indians that came in and submitted with John Sachem of Packachooge, with the names and age of the children and the names of their relations and the places where they belonged and the names of the persons with whom they were placed. The terms and conditions upon which they are to serve is to be ordered by the General Court who are to provide that the children be religiously educated and taught to read English.

There follows a list of thirty-two Indian children put out to service with twenty-three persons. The document is probably a contemporary copy as the handwriting does not resemble Daniel Gookin's. It has be rinted in the New Historical and Genealogical Registe P.272.
